

Volunteer Profile

Imagine a community that had fun, family festivals, eco-tourism events, where the people benefited from exposure to both higher forms of art and music as well as traditional forms, and felt a sense of pride and purpose for their contribution to it. This community would be a welcoming, rewarding, desirable place to live.

Galax is that place. Or it at least has the solid foundation already in place on which to build this vision. Previously untapped resources wait around every corner of Galax: individuals who enjoy community events and would love to help in some small way but are never asked. There are companies that would offer their workforce or equipment for a specific project, which could benefit many. Every project that involves the work of dedicated, generous volunteers enriches overall character of the community and enhances the quality of life for everyone in Galax.

The more people that offer help, the less work there will be to go around. Please offer your assistance or resources to this grass roots endeavor to get more members of the community involved. The limits of what we can achieve together are boundless.
